

Inclusive leadership

Leaders shape the culture. Consciously using differences, not treating everyone the same.

Who it is for Board members, managers and supervisory directors

Format Masterclass · in-company or online

Leaders shape the culture. Inclusive leadership is not about treating everyone the same, but about consciously using differences.

In this masterclass participants discover how leadership influences collaboration, decision-making, innovation and psychological safety.

Topics include:

- inclusive leadership in practice;
- unconscious bias;
- psychological safety;
- decision-making;
- leading diverse teams.

What is inclusive leadership?

Inclusive leadership is not about treating everyone the same, but about consciously using differences. Competencies such as self-insight, curiosity and recognising your own biases are central, because leaders ultimately shape the culture of an organisation.

Participants leave with concrete insight and practical tools they can apply straight away.
